The 2018 Audi Q5 3.0 TDI Sport (often badged as the 50 TDI in certain markets) is a premium mid-size luxury SUV powered by a punchy 3.0-litre V6 turbo-diesel engine. Sitting near the top of the standard Q5 range, this model balances effortless highway cruising with exceptional torque

The V6 diesel engine sets this model apart from its more common 4-cylinder siblings

Engine: 3.0-litre V6 single-turbo diesel Power: 210 kW (approx. 282 hp) @ 3000 rpm Torque

620 Nm available low down at 1500–3000 rpm Transmission: 8-speed Tiptronic torque-converter automatic (not the 7-speed dual-clutch found on smaller variants)

Drivetrain: Full-time quattro all-wheel drive with a 40:60 front-to-rear default power split Acceleration

0–100 km/h in 5.8 seconds Fuel Economy

Combined average of 6.3 L / 100km

Key Standard Features on the 'Sport'

The Sport trim line serves as a highly equipped tier in Audi's premium lineup

Cockpit Tech: 12.3-inch Virtual Cockpit digital instrument display and 8.3-inch MMI Navigation Plus screen

Connectivity: Apple CarPlay, Android Auto, wireless smartphone charging, and a 10-speaker sound system. Exterior

20-inch alloy wheels, adaptive LED headlights, and a gesture-controlled power tailgate.

Comfort: Heated leather front sports seats, tri-zone automatic climate control, and an electrically adjustable steering column.
